YOUR WORK AREA

Being a Good Neighbor. In the ONC, agency employees work all day in proximity to one another in offices and workstations. In order to ensure a pleasant and productive work environment, employees must behave in a manner that does not disturb, interrupt, or annoy other employees. Loud noises, music, conversation, and other disturbances disrupt the workplace and harm work relationships. It is essential that employees behave professionally and act as good neighbors toward their colleagues and employees of the other agencies.

Personalizing an Office or Workstation. The design, function, and maintenance of offices and workstations are essential to the productivity of agency employees. Every effort has been made to ensure that employees work in areas that are conducive to productivity, pleasant, comfortable, and safe. Agency employees spend a lot of time in their offices and workstations. While these areas are the ONC property, employees are permitted to personalize their offices and workstation with pictures and other mementos. Such items, however, must conform to professional standards and good taste. Decorations and other personal items must never be offensive or make other employees feel harassed, uncomfortable, threatened, annoyed, or insulted. Employees must never decorate, change, or adjust office fixtures, wall surfaces, doors or ceilings.

Office Decorations. Employees working in offices may place pictures, painting, and other such materials on desks and tables. Care must be taken to never damage or discolor office walls, ceilings, and doors. Any changes to paint or wall coverings must have prior approval given by the ONC.

Plants. Employees are permitted to have plants as long as plants are no higher than the workstation, placed on a shelf or desktop, protected by an overflow reservoir to prevent leaks, bug-free and disease-free, and are trimmed and in healthy condition. Plants must not be placed where they will obstruct walkways. Employees are responsible for the care of their own plants, and are not allowed to have plants that may cause allergic reactions to other employees.

Personal Devices in Suites. Agency employees are NOT allowed to have the following types of devices in the ONC, unless otherwise given authorized permission: Air conditioners, air filters and humidifiers, devices that present a hazard, grills, hair dryers, hot plates, irons, mug warmers, personal coffee pots/makers, personal extension cords, personal microwaves, personal TV or video players, refrigerators, and stoves or ovens. Agency employees are responsible for turning off all lights and other electronic devices when leaving their office or workstation.

YOUR RESPONSIBILITY

Food and Beverages. Agency employees are strongly encouraged to eat and drink in the kitchen area instead of offices, workstations, or meeting rooms. Food and beverages in office areas often result in spills and odors that diminish the professional appearance of the ONC. When eating or drinking in meeting rooms, every care should be taken to maintain the room in a neat and clean manner. Agency employees must ensure that trash is removed and is placed in proper receptacles. Agency employee parties should always be held in the kitchen area or conference rooms.

Any food, water, or other beverages left in rented spaces will be discarded unless the ONC office administration is notified. Agency employees must provide details of exact items and donate them directly to an ONC staff member. Any items left in any ONC space, including the kitchen, conference rooms, lobby, ON Center, or other community areas, that have not been communicated to ONC Staff will be disposed of immediately

Lights. General area light switches are located in each room and in the common areas of the building. Agency employees should turn off all lights in their work area if they are the last to leave. Agency employees who use personal lamps in their office or workstation must ensure that all lights are turned off when they leave work. Employees are also responsible for replacing bulbs in personal desk lamps.

Heating and Air Conditioning. Temperature settings are set electronically and monitored by the ONC. Areas in the building are zoned, and the thermostats are set by building management according to industry standards (70-74 degrees). Any temperature complaints should be directed to ONC office management. Agency employees who are uncomfortable due to temperature should inform their office manager, whom, if needed, will contact the ONC to place a work order request.

YOUR SAFETY

First Aid and Emergencies. A first aid kit is available at the front desk reception area. The front desk representative should be notified of any serious illness or injuries requiring a call to 911, so that emergency response teams can be sent immediately to the location needing their service. Bomb threats or other threats should be taken seriously. Gather as much detailed information as possible from the caller, and record that information if possible. Immediately notify your supervisor and the ONC front desk representative. Refer to the building emergencies/evacuation plan for detailed instructions. Remember: Hallways are part of the emergency evacuation routes. Nothing shall be stored in the hallways so as to maintain safe passageways out of the building.

Accidents and Medical Emergencies. In the event of an accident or medical emergency requiring first aid or treatment by emergency medical personnel, agency employees should notify a supervisor and call 911 for assistance, after which the front desk ONC representative should be contacted. The supervisor, in turn, must report all accidents in writing to the ONC staff.

Building Emergencies / Evacuations. The ONC evacuation procedure requires all staff and visitors to comply and report to the meeting point immediately following an evacuation. Each agency employee is responsible for reporting to his or her supervisor so that an accurate head count can be made. As you exit the building, proceed to the Large ONC/Agency Sign on the South East corner of the building, and remain there until instructed to return to the building. Employees should never sit in their vehicles or leave in their vehicles once the evacuation begins. When alarms go off, all employees and visitors must vacate. Failure to comply will result in a fine billed directly to the offending organization. Maps of floor evacuation routes are posted in conference room spaces and in agency suites. Employees are responsible for familiarizing themselves with these routes and following them in the event of an evacuation.

Outages and Malfunctions. Power outages occasionally occur. In the event of an outage, the phones will not work. There will be emergency lighting for your safety.

Building Security. Security for the ONC building and campus is provided through a combination of: restricted building access through the use of electronic key fobs, security cameras, area lighting, and a front desk representative during business hours. Agency employees play a key role in security by: being on alert for dangerous or threatening situations; reporting suspicious persons and real or potential threats to the front desk representative, the ONC staff, or agency employees immediately; not allowing unauthorized persons to enter the ONC; ensuring that no one else can use their electronic key fob; reporting lost electronic key fobs immediately to the front desk representative or the ONC staff; using caution and common sense to prevent threats and attacks; locking all doors on vehicles in the parking lot; and safeguarding confidential information. If a potentially dangerous situation develops, and the front desk representative and/or the ONC staff cannot be contacted, employees and supervisors should contact the local police and fire department for assistance by dialing 911.

Intercom Emergency Paging. Only available on ONC phone system. Press intercom button, press 321, wait for beep, state emergency (code purple = threatening person), state location & brief description of emergency, and hang up. Once emergency is resolved, redo page and say all clear.

Fire Drills and Fire Alarms. Fire drills are conducted at the discretion of the ONC staff. Drills may be announced or unannounced. When a drill is conducted, all employees are required to participate and cooperate fully. All agency employees are responsible for familiarizing themselves with fire drill procedures and building evacuation routes. When an alarm sounds, employees must react as if the alarm represents a warning of an actual fire or threat to building safety. Upon hearing the alarm, agency employees should evacuate the building immediately in a calm and orderly fashion, following established evacuation routes. Guests in the building should be directed to evacuate immediately with employees. Employees and guests should remain outside and clear the building until authorized to return by a fire department official or an authorized representative of the ONC. Refer to the building emergencies/evacuation plan for more detailed instruction.

Non-Emergency Fire. (Accidental Pull, Burnt Food, etc...) Call Emergency 24 monitoring immediately and notify them not to send the fire department. 1-800-877-3624 Account# OA-4745 Passcode: 745

Fire Extinguishers and Sprinklers. Fire extinguishers are located in clearly marked wall boxes. Directions for their use are attached to the extinguishers. Agency employees are expected to use their own judgment when choosing to use any fire extinguisher prior to evacuating. In addition, the ONC has a system of automatic sprinklers that will activate in the event of a fire.

Tornado Warnings. In the event of a tornado warning, head to the centralized bathrooms. Stay as far away from exterior windows as possible. You will be notified by the ONC staff when the warning has passed.

Workplace Violence/ Active Shooter. There are many different situations that may occur which could cause agency staff or clients discomfort because of improper actions of others. These actions may or may not be illegal, but if they are inconsistent with the organization's values or procedures, they should not be tolerated. In the event an agency staff member encounters an irate or disruptive person, please remain calm, ask the person to leave if appropriate, and contact the police if needed.
